State Farmers Await Approval of Hay Plan

By The Associated Press
Drought-stricken Arkansas farmers waited today for Washington approval of a new Federal-State emergency hay program as chances of more rain for the state dwindled.

Cloudy to partly cloudy and cool weather was predicted for the state today with scattered showers in the extreme northeast early today and continued partly cloudy and cool tomorrow.

A forecaster at the U.S. Weather Bureau in Little Rock said it appeared that rain which blanketed most of the state Sunday night and yesterday was a relief of these dry affairs.

The forecaster said several days of extended rainfall was needed to soften the parched earth.

Farm and forest experts rejoiced, however, as the rains temporarily dispensed with a dangerous fire hazard in the woodlands and soaked winter in the woodlands and soaked winter grain crops.

With little hope that current rains would break the drought, federal and state officials were continuing plans for an emergency hay program for 54 of Arkansas' 75 counties.

After a meeting with the State Drought Committee in Gov. Cherry's office yesterday, State Sen. Marvin Melton left for Washington. He will seek approval of the state's plan for participation in the emergency hay program.

Gov. Cherry said "speed is the essence" in the program and urged that the provision excluding 21 Arkansas' counties from the program was "outrageous." Efforts to have all of Arkansas included in the program has been unsuccessful.

Handling of the Arkansas drought program by the Eisenhower administration also brought severe criticism from Sen. John L. McClellan (D-Ark.) yesterday.

McClellan criticized the "procrastination and indecision" of the administration in what he called its failure to act in the drought emergency.

The program which Melton is attempting to get approved includes these main points:

1. A central controlling office in Little Rock, manned by as yet unnamed supervisor, to be paid from Gov. Cherry's emergency fund.

2. An arrangement with wholesale and retail feed dealers to act as distributors of the hay, to be shipped to Arkansas from other states with the federal government sharing with the federal government the local dealers' would receive a profit tentatively set at 50 cents a ton for wholesalers and $1 a ton for retailers.

3. Individual farmers would place their orders for the emergency hay with the county agricultural agent who would transmit it to the dealers.

4. The shipment would be ordered by the central office. Melton hopes to return to Arkansas tonight and start setting up the program tomorrow.

The Federal-State Marketing News Service meanwhile reported that the limited rainfall probably will relieve the tremendous crush that has left Arkansas rice farmers without storage space for their crops.

The service said the delay in harvesting caused by the rain probably will allow some storage facilities to accept limited supplies of rice once the farmers resume fathering the grain.

State forester Fred Lang said: "Danger in the timber dry forests has been relieved at least temporarily."

Forty fires swept through 271 acres of Arkansas timber over the week-end.

By CHARLES F. BARRETT
WASHINGTON — A "caravan" of 350 cattlemen declared today the Eisenhower administration's program for dealing with a "desperate situation" in the livestock industry has failed.

The cattlemen urgently petitioned President Eisenhower and Secretary of Agriculture Benson for immediate government guarantees on livestock prices.

These sentiments were voiced in a resolution prepared by the caravan for presentation in a second meeting with Benson later today.

The cattlemen from 30 states, held a mass meeting with the agriculture secretary yesterday and outlined in general their plea for relief for the ailing livestock industry.

But Benson's reaction left little hope among leaders in the caravan that he would yield to their pleas for prompt action to put a government floor under livestock prices.

Looking beyond their meetings with Benson, however, the cattlemen foresaw a heated fight over the issue when Congress reconvenes in January and possibly growing support for their stand.

The resolution declared that "thousands of average-sized farmers and ranchers are faced with selling out, going bankrupt, or both" unless steps are taken at once to correct "one of the most drastic price declines in modern history."

The resolution acknowledged steps already taken by Benson "to restore a measure of confidence in this great and important industry" but said this program has proved inadequate.

The cattle delegation declared that the advice given to Benson by his livestock advisory committee — which opposed livestock price supports — "is not now representative of the thinking of the typical American cattle producer."

New Trouble Faces Benson From GOPs

By JACK BELL
WASHINGTON — New trouble turned up today for Secretary of Agriculture Benson in the form of Republican opposition to his plan for reorganization of his department.

With Benson beleaguered by cattlemen seeking price supports of beef on the hoof, Sen. Carlson (R-Ark.) announced he is going to ask the secretary to delay putting the reorganization plan into effect until Congress can take a searching look at its probable effect.

"I'm afraid this reorganization plan contemplates elimination of the soil conservation program on a watershed or regional basis and puts it back on a countrywide basis," Carlson said.

He said in an interview he also feared that the reorganization, which would eliminate seven regional soil conservation offices, might result in the loss to government service of highly trained specialists he thought ought to be retained.

In outlining the plan Oct. 13, Benson invited comment and criticism and said he would wait at least until Nov. 1 to put any official effect.

HOMETOWN, U.S.A. — The visitor could hear the sound of loud voices as he rang the bell at the door of Wilbur and Trellis Mae Peebles.

"I hope I'm not disturbing you," he murmured as the door opened. "Oh, no, my wife and I were just working on a crossword puzzle," said Wilbur.

"Don't you use pencils," asked the visitor, noticing both Peebles were empty-handed.

"On, it isn't a newspaper crossword puzzle," said Wilbur. "It's the family kind. . . You know. . . The husband can never find a space to fit in a word."

Frost Tonight in Sections of Arkansas

LITTLE ROCK — Frost has been forecast for various sections of Arkansas tonight and it could hurt some snap beans, sorghum grains and rice.

Frost was predicted for the central northeast and northwest Arkansas.

Miles McPeck, statistician of the Federal-State Crop Reporting Service, said some snap beans still are being harvested around Fort Smith. The plant is so tender that it couldn't withstand a frost. McPeck also said that some immature rice probably would be damaged by a frost and maturity of sorghum grains might be stifled to such an extent that they would have to be cut for feed.

Generally, the weekly crop report showed farmers making good progress in harvesting cotton, rice soybeans and corn.

Cotton and rice harvest is about two-thirds finished and soybean harvest is well along toward completion.

Cattle are being fed heavily on supplemental feed and some farmers are hauling water. Winter grains now are furnishing good grazing in a number of fields in northwest Arkansas.

The recent showers are expected to help strawberry beds which have lost many plants this fall because of extended heat and drought.

When sighting a whale, ancient mariners had a custom of throwing out an empty tub to divert it.

Extended Forecast

For Oct. 27-31 (P) Arkansas — Temperatures will average 2-4 degrees below normal. Normal minimum 45-60. Normal maximum 68-78. Precipitation moderate except little or none in North Arkansas. Showers about Friday.

5-Power Talks May Decide Trieste Issue

WASHINGTON — Secretary of State Dulles said today there could well be a five-power conference to settle the future of Trieste before the United States and Britain withdraw their occupation troops.

The sooner such a conference is held the better it will be for Western defenses against Communism in south Europe, Dulles told a news conference.

The secretary said it would take considerable time for the 7,000 American and British troops to be pulled out of Zone A. American and British diplomats are discussing in London, he added, technical problems involved in the withdrawal.

The United States and Britain announced Oct. 8 that they would turn over their zone of Trieste, known as Zone A, to Italy once they have withdrawn their troops.

Yugoslavia, which lays claim to Trieste, threatened to march in its troops if Italian forces moved in.

The proposed five-power conference would include the United States, Britain, France, Yugoslavia and Italy.

Dulles said the Trieste crisis has generated a lot of emotional excitement in Yugoslavia but that the British-American decision is aimed at an eventual final, peaceful settlement of what he described as this Gordian knot.

U. S., Russia Square Off on Torture Charges

By RICHARD WITKIN
UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (UP) — Russia and the United States squared away today for a new propaganda battle over documented U. S. charges that the Communists used merciless torture to obtain false germ-warfare confession from American flier captured in Korea.

The Russians faced almost certain repudiation — for a second time — of their well-worn charges that U. S. planes dumped disease germs on North Korean civilians.

The United States charged before the United Nations yesterday that "Soviet personnel" helped Chinese and North Korean Communists extract the widely-publicized "confessions" from American prisoners. Affidavits from 10 repatriated prisoners were submitted to back up the charge.

Soviet Delegate Jacob A. Malik replied immediately to the charges, saying the American fliers repudiated their "confessions" to save themselves from punishment for treason.

The U. N. General Assembly's main political committee resumes debate on the germ warfare issue tomorrow. The Russians will make a new attempt at adoption of a once-defeated propaganda resolution aimed at embarrassing the United States.

The Soviet resolution would call on all nations to ratify the 1925 Geneva convention outlawing bacteriological weapons. The United States on the ground it lacks any endorsement has ratified the convention and is only a paper agreement.

Whereabouts of Baby Sitter Still Mystery

LA CROSSE, Wis. (AP) — A 43-year-old traveling salesman arrested in connection with the reported rape of a housewife was questioned today about the disappearance of 15-year-old Evelyn Hartley from a baby-sitting job Saturday night.

Dist. Atty. John Bosshard said the salesman, Bernard Lauer, was brought here this morning from Eau Claire where he was arrested last night.

"This is purely routine," said Bosshard, "just a part of our strategy to investigate every possible lead in the case."

By CHRIS EDMONDS
LACROSSE, Wis. (AP) — Lacrosse was an uneasy town last night, a town where parents of teen-age girls stirred restlessly at strange noises, where everyone stayed home because there were no baby sitters.

This was the town of 50,000 where 15-year-old Evelyn Hartley, pert daughter of a college professor, disappeared Saturday night while baby-sitting so a family could attend a homecoming football game.

"You expect things like this to happen in New York or Chicago or St. Louis, but not in Lacrosse," said a neighbor woman of the Hartleys.

Rewards totaling $450 have been posted today for information leading to the arrest of the man who forced a basement window at the Viggo Rasmussen home Saturday night and spirited the girl away.

But there were no tangible clues. Footprints, of about a size 10 shoe, were found leading to the Rasmussen home in a new subdivision. Bloodhounds followed the tracks a few blocks, then stopped.

Officers figured the girl was shoved into a parked car at that time. Continued on Page Two

Chinese Warned Attitude Will Prevent Peace

By FRANK JORDAN
PANMUNJOM (UP) — United States Special Ambassador Arthur H. Dean warned the Communists today the Korean peace conference may never be held unless the Reds abandon their stubborn fight to invite neutral nations to the talks.

Dean's blunt warning was delivered to the Reds as they insisted for the second day that the current preliminary talks on the time and place of the peace conference first decide what nations will attend.

The United Nations representative told the Communists their position was "utterly unreasonable and unacceptable." He told the North Korean and Chinese Reds the U. N. would be willing to discuss the conference makeup only after the time and place of the political talks had been determined.

"If the Communists persist in their all or nothing attitude," Dean said after today's two hour and 38 minute meeting, "the onus of not having a political conference will be squarely on their shoulders."

Today's meeting of the diplomatic teams followed the pattern of Monday's session.

North Korean Ki Sok Bok opened the meeting in the straw hut in the center of the neutral zone near Panmunjom with renewed demands that the makeup of the conference be the first subject discussed. Dean again refused.

The standoff paralleled a deadlock in the neutral nations' reputation commission over the stalled program to explain to unrepatriated prisoners of war why they should return to their homelands.

The neutral commission meeting in Panmunjom was snarled over the problem of whether or not force should be used to make recalcitrant anti-Red prisoners face Communist interviews.

At the diplomats conference today Dean said that Communist insistence on neutral nations attending the peace conference "flatly repudiated" the Korean armistice agreement.

Israel, Syria Called Before Security Council

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (UP) — The U. N. Security Council today summoned representatives of Israel and Syria to a face to face meeting of the council table to air their charges and counter charges in the explosive Palestine question.

Dr. Faeel Zeidwade of Syria took a seat at the extreme left of the table and Abba Ebban of Israel at the extreme right with the entire 11-nation membership between them.

Before either of the contending parties, each supported by five advisors, could speak, Pakistan's Foreign Minister, Mohamed Zafarullah Khan asked the council to order Israel to stop work temporarily on its project for harnessing Jordan River water.

He wanted the stoppage to last while the council deliberates the situation.

To make way for these urgent council deliberations, the General Assembly's 60-nation Political Committee put off until tomorrow continued debate on American charges that the Russians directed a Red torture center to wring from captured American soldiers "confessions" they participated in alleged U. S. germ warfare in Korea.

UN Studies $800 Million Peace Plan

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (UP) — Copies of an $800,000,000 Palestine peace program were distributed to members of the United Nations today on the eve of an important Security Council session to seek a resolution to mounting tensions between Israel and her Arab neighbors.

The program for refugee resettlement and economic development of the Holy Land was proposed by a group of prominent Americans who hoped it would provide an inducement for Israel and the Arab nations to reach a peace settlement.

The refugee problem will be one of the main topics to be discussed before the Security Council by Maj. Gen. Vaughn Bennett, chief of the U. N. truce observation commission, when he reports tomorrow on the situation in Palestine.

Sponsors of the new Palestine peace program emphasized that it could be carried out only if the present shaky truce in the Holy Land was replaced by a permanent peace settlement. The plan would have the United Nations:

1. Invest $500,000,000 in projects to develop Palestine's water, soil, oil, chemical and human resources over a six-year period. Arab countries "now receiving or expected large oil royalties should be invited to make a fair contribution" to this fund.

2. Allocate $300,000,000 for permanent resettlement within the Arab countries of some 600,000 Arab refugees in abandoned Jewish camps since they fled from Israel during the Palestine war. Israel should "be required to make a fair contribution to that fund in way of compensation for abandoned Arab land in Israel."

Today, the general assembly's main political committee was expected to wind up its debate on the French-Tunisian dispute by voting a mildly worded resolution such as was adopted in the twelfth session concerning Morocco.

The committee will turn next to Communist charges that United States forces waged atom warfare in Korea. Dr. Charles W. Mayo of the famed Mayo Clinic will handle the case for the U.N.

"We have a few things," said Laboratory Director Charles Wilson before the team headed back to its headquarters in Madison.

"Perhaps we have some fingerprints. We will check over what we have and make a detailed report later."

The girl's father, Richard, 48, a professor at LaCrosse State College, discovered her missing. She had not called home as usual and he went to the Rasmussen home to investigate. The radio was playing loudly and the doors were locked. He couldn't get in, but he found the basement window open and slid through it. He found the body of his daughter in the living room and in the basement, the other in the living room floor.

McClellan in Spa for Big Conference

HOT SPRINGS (UP) — Sen. John L. McClellan, announced over the proposed closing of the Hot Springs Army-Navy Hospital came to this resort city today for a protest meeting with congressmen and state officials.

McClellan yesterday called on President Eisenhower to stop "all economic aid to countries abroad" rather than close military hospitals. The Army ordered the Hot Springs installation closed on March 1.

In a wire to the President, McClellan said: "If we have reached that point where we must reduce medical services to our military and veteran personnel in order to effectuate such small savings then I respectfully urge that you (Eisenhower) issue an order topping all economic aid to countries abroad."

McClellan said he was informed in a letter from T. A. Young, special assistant to the secretary of the Army at Washington, that the Army-Navy Hospital at Hot Springs was the most logical one for deactivation because of its size.

Probers Seek to Talk With Code Clerk

NEW YORK (UP) — Counsel for the McCarthy and Jenner Senate probe subcommittees have joined in a move to interview Igor Gouzenko, former code clerk in the Soviet Embassy at Ottawa.

Gouzenko, who helped break the 1945 Canadian spy case, has been quoted as saying a "talk with either of the subcommittees would be worthwhile."

The joint reaction of the committees' counsel yesterday was "delighted."

The statement came from Roy M. Cohn, chief counsel of the Senate permanent subcommittee on investigations, headed by Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis.) and Robert Morris, chief counsel of the Senate internal security subcommittee, headed by Sen. William E. Jenner (R-Ind.).

The two attorneys said they had asked the State Department to request permission of Canadian authorities to see Gouzenko in Canada. He has been living obscurely in Canada since breaking away from the Soviet Embassy and telling a story that helped bring six espionage convictions.

Staff members of the McCarthy subcommittee yesterday questioned a witness described as a civilian supervisory employee of the Evan Signal Laboratory, top-secret radar installation at Ft. Monmouth, N. J. He reportedly was questioned about possible connections with a person named as a member of the Alger Hiss espionage ring.

In the absence of McCarthy, who was away on a speaking tour, his committee counsel questioned a total of 11 witnesses at the closed session, all but one employed at the Ft. Monmouth laboratory, where the subcommittee has charged radar espionage. Names of the witnesses were not revealed.

A committee source said the alleged Hiss ring figure involved in yesterday's questioning was an engineer who worked in the General Electric Co. laboratories at Schenectady, N. Y.

More Ft. Monmouth specialists have been summoned for questioning at a closed hearing today.

The subcommittee counsel announced plans for members of the staff to fly to Lewisburg, Pa., tomorrow to interview atom spies David Greenglass and Harry Gold, who are in the federal prison there.

The subcommittee wants to know if Greenglass or Gold can tell anything about executed atom spy Julius Rosenberg's purported connection with a Ft. Monmouth spy ring.

Escaping Crashes Is Old Stuff
TOPEKA, Kan. (AP) — Escaping from plane crashes is getting to be old stuff for Capt. John E. Roche, Washington, D. C.

Roche was a member of a 15-man crew which yesterday escaped serious injury when a reconnaissance bomber Roche was piloting crashed - landed at nearby Forbes Air Force Base.

Last July he was pulled out of the Sea of Japan, the only known survivor after a similar reconnaissance plane was shot down by a MIG-15. The shooting resulted in an American protest to Russia.

Mother-In-Law Trouble

Dear Miss Dix: My husband and I own our own home, and since our marriage a year ago, my 80-year-old mother-in-law has lived with us. Until recently things went well, but in the last months she began telling me how to run my house. My husband told me not to give in to her, yet when I argue with her, he's worried because we don't get along together.

Do Things Your Way
Answer: Octogenarians are often difficult to handle because they don't remember, or they confuse time. Your mother-in-law seems to be living in the past when she was mistress of her own home. Try listening to her patiently, then go and do things in your own way. She will probably never notice the difference.

Dear Miss Dix: I'm 14 and like a boy of the same age. The only thing that bothers me is that he smokes. Do you think I should drop him because of this?

Answer: There's nothing so silly as seeing teen-agers age the habits of their elders. Youngsters at the show-off stage love to act big, but if they appear to their contemporaries they'd soon stop. Try to point this out to your young man and perhaps he'll save the adult privilege of smoking until he is a little older.

Dear Miss Dix: I'm 28 years old and have been teaching school for some time. A 17-year-old pupil claims that she is madly in love with me. I'd like to date her, but realizes that under circumstances it would be impossible. What can I do?

Answer: I hope you realize that catering to the young lady's infatuations may lose you your job, and even your teaching license. Would not that rather a high price to pay for gratifying the girl? You certainly must have encountered other teachers who have experienced the crushes of teen-agers for male instructors. It's one teacher this term and another next semester. Forget the whole thing.

Dear Miss Dix: My problems is not along the lines of those usually presented you, but I hope you can help me. A few months ago I bought a lovely home, and rented out the upper two floors. The occupants have been in the house several years. My problem is that they always use the front entrance, and have their children running in and out of the part of the house on which I spent most money for improvement. I haven't mentioned the fact to them, because I realize they have the right to use any entrance they choose, but I do think of consideration for us they should use the back stairway most of the time.

Answer: If it's at all feasible, the best thing to do would be to close the front entrance to them, and cut the back stairway off from your part of the house. This is the proceed almost always used when a small house is occupied by two or more families. Their entrance could be prettied up a bit. Otherwise, there's no reason why you can't ask them to use the back entrance most of the time. Almost all householders do use a side or back entry for children, service calls etc.

Dear Miss Dix: I have been happy for the two years of my marriage except for the fact that my husband won't work. He says he has worked hard enough all his life and deserves a rest now. I am his second wife.

Answer: If you can afford the luxury of keeping a husband, and can afford another nervous breakdown from overwork, hang on to him by all means. He certainly won't get a job as long as there's someone else to work for him.

"Weg O well," said Mr. Querie. "What do you think the U. S. should do to solve its economic and international problems?"

"That's easy," replied Wilbur. "In a word, well — We should lower prices, cut taxes, balance the budget, help ourselves by helping other nations build a real defense at home and abroad."

"And put up bigger and better houses for the blue birds," broke in Trellis Mae. "Or, in a shorter word — nonsense!"

"My wife studied economics in high school, and it affected her mind," apologized Wilbur stiffly. "What do you think of the catlemen's march on Washington?" inquired Mr. Querie.

"It's the wrong approach," observed Wilbur. "If you want to get anything from a politician you got to get him to come to you. You can't go to him. That breaks the rules."

"It's the high price or sink I'm interested in," put in Trellis Mae. "Do you blame that on the catlemen?" asked Mr. Querie.

"No, no," said Trellis Mae. "I've narrowed it down. The catlemen and the packers say it ain't their fault. My butcher says it ain't his fault. I know it ain't mine. Who does that leave the cattle themselves. They must be responsible — the sneaky things, although I don't know how. Maybe it's just their dumb animal pride."

"Umm, umm," said Mr. Querie, confused. "What do you think would most benefit the average American worker today?"

"Well, either to get a raise in pay or have some real pull — like knowing somebody that can get you a radio or TV give-away program," said Wilbur.

"He's a dreamer," broke in Trellis Mae again. "The first thing we need is smoke control."

"I don't believe I quite get you," said Mr. Querie.

"Well, the average American is a white collar worker," said Trellis Mae. "and if the cities would enforce smoke control laws he could wear the same shirt to work two days in a row."

The eyes of Mr. Querie began to glaze, but he made one more stab. "We like to find what problem is really uppermost in the average couple's mind at the time we poll them," he said. "What were you arguing . . . or . . . that is, talking about when I rang your bell — personal finances, the Russian threat, the Communist menace?"

"Well, as a matter of fact," said Wilbur, "we were discussing why my wife's brother got tight at our wedding reception 15 years ago last Tuesday. My wife still says I didn't do any such thing."

"You did too!" exclaimed Trellis Mae. "And now, at last, I'll tell you how I know. The minister saw you do it, and he told me. I just wanted to see how many years you could go on telling me a lie."

"And I paid that minister $10 for 15 minutes work," said Wilbur, turning to Mr. Querie. "You know what's the big problem in the world today? There's nobody a man can really trust. Put that in your poll."

"And nobody a wife can trust either," wound up Trellis Mae. "Put that in your poll twice."

UN Council to Examine Bloody Dispute

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Arabs and the Jews of Israel, being members of direct action, have treated each other bloodily. Tomorrow the United Nations Security Council examines their latest disputes.

Since the disputes have deep roots, here is the background. When the Ottoman (Turkish) Empire in the Near East was broken up after World War I, the League of Nations mandated Syria to France and Palestine to Britain.

The mandate meant that, after a period of preparation, the people in those three territories could have their own governments. France let Syria have full independence after World War I. At once Britain did the same for Transjordan.

It was different with Palestine, which was occupied by Jews and Arabs. Yet, as long ago as 1917, the British had promised to make Palestine a homeland for Jews, provided there were safeguards for the Arabs living there. The proposal infuriated the Arabs.

Britain wanted the friendship of the Jews, who far outnumbered the Arabs in the strategic Near East. Failing to get agreement from them and the Jews on Palestine, Britain tossed the problem decades later to the U. N.

In 1947 the U. N. proposed dividing Palestine into two states, one Jewish, one Arab. The Jews and Arabs in Palestine began to fight. Britain threw up its hands, said it would clear out by May 15, 1948.

The Jews declared Palestine an independent state, Israel. Israel's neighbors — Lebanon, Syria, Iraq, Egypt, Jordan (formerly Transjordan) — were more than a match for the attackers.

In 1949 the U. N. got the war stopped by an armistice agreed to by both sides, pending a final peace treaty. It's still pending. There has been no real peace; there have been raid across the borders, shootings, killings — by both Israelis and Arabs.

Israel as a frontier with four of the states it fought: Lebanon, Syria, Jordan and Egypt.

The dispute now before the U. N. concerns Israel, Syria and Jordan. Take the Syrian problem first: Israel's frontier with Syria is about 47 miles, almost all of it in a demilitarized zone — in which Jews and Arabs live — set up by the U. N. as part of the armistice. Through this zone runs the Jordan River, from north to south.

The Israelis, wanting to use the Jordan for hydroelectric power and irrigation, began to work on the river to divert it out of the demilitarized zone westward into Israeli territory. They said they would bring it back into the zone about 16 miles below where the diversion began.

The Syrians complained that this violated the armistice agreement.

Blame Gear for Landing in Jail

DALLAS (AP) — Two New York cowboys, who said car trouble stranded them in Little Rock, Ark., are blaming a saddle, a guitar and heavy rodeo gear for landing them in jail.

They have been charged by federal authorities with stealing an automobile in Little Rock.

James Richard Thorpe, 23, and Frederick Joseph Knoll, 23, were arrested Sunday night as they slept in a car here, waiting out a heavy rainstorm.

The cowpokes explained to U. S. Commissioner W. Madden III that they were en route from New York City to a dude ranch at Tucson, Ariz., when their car broke down in Little Rock.

"We just had to take that car," said Knoll. "We'd have started hitchhiking, but we couldn't carry all our heavy gear."

They said the Israel government had no right to take such action in the demilitarized zone without Syrian consent. They said the river diversion would deprive Arab lands of irrigation the head of the U. N. peace commission, Danish Maj. Gen. Vagn Bennike, ordered Israel to stop work on the river. Israel refused. Syria brought its complaint to the U. N.

In the meantime, Israel was having critical trouble with its eastern neighbor, Transjordan. An armed band crossed into Israel and killed a mother and two children. An armed force from Israel retaliated by crossing into Jordan, attacking three Arab villages and killing 63 people. The Jordanians paid this by mining and derailing an Israeli train although no one was killed in the wreck.

The United States denounced the attack on the Arab villages. Secretary of State Dulles said this government would withhold economic aid to the Israeli government because it defied the U. N. with its work on the Jordan River.

The United States, Britain and France asked the U. N. Security Council, of which the three are members, to consider the attack on the Jordan village. Bennike was called to New York to report. The council will hear Bennike and the Syrian complaint tomorrow. The Jordan complaint is later in the week.

Israel contends the Arabs have been attacking Israelis in violation of the armistice and refuse to agree on a peace treaty.

Olson May Make Tour of Orient

SAN FRANCISCO (U) — World Middleweight Champion Carl "Bobo" Olson may tour the Orient, his manager, Sid Flaherty, said today.

Flaherty said he had conferred with Honolulu promoters for a possible non-title bout with France's Pierre Lalouais.

"However, that was before Lalouais was defeated by Garth Punter Friday," said Flaherty. "Maybe they would prefer Punter now."

Flaherty said he hopes to take Olson to Honolulu, Bobo's former home, Manila and Tokyo for non-title bouts in January or February.

ARKANSAS Sportettes

by CARL BELL

By CARL BELL
Associated Press Sports Writer

General Frank Koon thought last summer that the new rule killing two-plate football would help his (Ozark) team. Now he's sure of it. His Mountaineers, who everybody else picked for the Arkansas Intercollegiate Conference cellar, are in first place and it looks as though they'll stay there.

The so-called experts are downright red-faced, and even Coach Koon admits he's "a little surprised" with his team's success.

"The return to one-plate football has been a big contribution to our winning," he said, "but I think the way the boys have come through with their best is a big reason."

"This is a fine bunch of boys. They have great team spirit. They're the kind who'll run more than the required laps in practice, and they take coaching exceptionally well."

Koon's methods must have something to do with the spirit. He's one of the few modern coaches who don't believe in driving his grid-ders.

"We don't like to crack the whip," he says. "We try to make football — practice and all — as much fun as possible."

Koon feels his team was underrated in the pre-season rankings because of several things. One was that Ozark is the smallest school and has the fewest football players in the AIC. Another was the loss of five starters and two top reserves from last year's squad.

"What they didn't realize is that we had boys capable of replacing those we lost. For instance, our line is pretty solid and it's made that way by the boys we held over from last year."

"I think George Loas is the finest guard in Arkansas. Then, Ray Binsinger, Bill Alexander and Riley are as good as a coach could want for tackles."

All-AIC Fullback Lonnie Qualls, tackle Robert Ehren and tailback-fullback George Pell, "a 155-pounder who runs like a 135-pounder," are the running and passing stars of the ball club. However, when Koon gets around to praising his backfield he usually talks of a boy who never carries the ball.

"Bill Lyons," he says, "is the finest blocking back we've ever had."

They lack depth but otherwise the Mountaineers have all the characteristics of a champion team. And superb physical conditioning has offset the absence of numerous reserves.

"We're not thinking of the championship now," Koon proclaims. "We're just taking one game at a time. We still have to play A&M, Teachers and Tech in the conference and any of those games could go either way. The team that is up the most will win."

Giardello Wants Crack at Champion

BROOKLYN (U) — As soon as a middleweight scores one victory these days he starts clamoring for a title shot. Joey Giardello is no exception.

The fourth-ranking contender from Philadelphia outpunched Walter Cartier in a bruising 10-rounder at Eastern Parkway Arena last night and immediately laid in the pitch for a title crack at champion Bobo Olson.

"I've beaten almost all the other contenders," said 33-year-old Joey. "I want to beat him. Why should I? I'll fight him for the title. I'll fight him for the title. I'll fight him for the title."

The dark-haired Philadelphia, a red-hot performer in the parkway, racked up his sixth straight victory in that arena when he gained the unanimous decision over Cartier.

It was a hard-fought battle all the way with Giardello, a 9-5 favorite, finishing strong to earn the verdict. There were no knock-downs but both were shaken up several times. Cartier suffered two deep cuts over his left eye in the eighth round. The cuts required 12 stitches. Giardello was bruised about both eyes and had a huge lump over his left eye.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK — The time has come says Jimmy Demarest when the golfing officials of this country and Great Britain should do something toward making a genuine contest out of the Ryder Cup team matches or abandon them entirely.

For once the game's laughing boy wasn't cracking a smile as he discussed the never-ending string of American victories in the biennial matches between the top professionals of the two countries. He said he was genuinely disturbed about it.

"Believe me we make no friends in England or anywhere else by continuing to hang it on these fellows," he declared. "I know because I've heard them talk about it. They feel that it isn't quite fair to match our pros who play for big money the year around against men whose main occupation is teaching."

"If they didn't beat us this year — and they didn't — there's no chance that they ever will. That team we sent over was the worst in history but it still won."

Jimmy who still holds the distinction of being the only three-time winner of the Augusta Masters event was not a member of our most recent team. He hastened to add this had not warped his judgment.

"If they're going to hold the thing at all," Jimmy persisted, "they should at least throw it open to all the professionals in the British Commonwealth. If this year's British team had included Bobby Locke of South Africa, Purdy Thompson and Norman Van Nida of Australia and a Canadian or two the result might have been very different."

Having got that off his chest the former Texan consented to disclose what had brought him down to the city from his swank place of employment in the Catskills. He is preparing to star in a series of 13 movie shorts aimed at one of the national television networks. He and Bob Brumby, who was the only writer to follow him Hogan all the way through Carmouche the past summer, are working on the script.

"There hasn't been a really good instruction series since Bobby Jones made his some 30 years ago, and we think the country is ready for another one," Jimmy said. "Interest in the game is growing every day, especially since we elect a good golfing president."

OUT OF DOORS with Field & Stream

Male Or Female
By JOE STETSON
Dog Editor

"I'm settled on the breed I want," said Jed, "but what about sex? I can't make up my mind whether to get a dog or a bitch."

This age-old argument always starts a flurry of controversial comment. But let's look at the thing sensibly. Not in terms of the dogs of either sex that we might own or remember, but from hard facts. No prize is trying to be little your prize possessions because of their respective gender.

There are good, fair and poor dogs and the same can be said of the distaff side of dogdom. The only thing that you can do is consider the qualities positive and negative that belong generally to each sex and then decide, as a matter of individual choice, which set of qualities you prefer to have in your home for the job at hand — or in the case of those whose hunting dogs double as house pets, both.

You will find that people who own only one dog, and who have rarely had more than one dog around at a time, usually prefer males. Dog breeders and folks who have had a lot of dogs around and have had ample opportunity to compare, almost always prefer females.

But it's not as simple as that and if we outline the pros and cons, it will be easy to see exactly why.

Bitches are usually quieter than dogs and more sensitive. They are usually gentler and they are not inclined to roam. They are cleaner in their habits and housebreak easier. They do not ruin shrubbery and are less inclined to scrag up lawns.

They are not so inclined to fight and, as guard dogs, they will warn and yet are more inclined to keep out of reach of an intruder, who by getting closer to them, can stop their warning effort.

"That's good enough reason for preferring bitches, isn't it?" said Jed insistently.

You must remember, though, it is the folks who have had a great deal of dog experience who know how to contend with a bitch's biannual season problem. If they have facilities and know-how, they are glad to do it. Some folks just aren't set up for it.

I've seen a lot of dog flesh work in quacking over or at field trials and there was one every now and then I'd like to have taken home, though it would have been over the owner's dead body. As far as sex is concerned, the honors were pretty even.

Shiri Defends Title Successfully

TOKYO (U) — World flyweight champion Yoshio Shirai tonight turned back the challenge of Terry Allen, a scrawny London cockney, in 15 dreary rounds that were heavy on clinches and light on action.

The decision was unanimous. The referee scored the fight, 149-136 for Shirai. One judge had it 130-130, the other 150-130. The Associated Press scorecard gave Shirai nine rounds, Allen four and rated two even.

It was a dismal fight. Two more reluctant batters probably never tangled for work crowd.

Until Shirai opened up in the last three rounds the crowd of 30,000 sat on their hands.

For the first 11 rounds the referee was the businesslike man in the ring as he broke up a series of clutches between the fights.

Baylor Moves to Third in Grid Ranking

By ORLO ROBERTSON

NEW YORK (U) — If college football games always ran true to form, you could depend on the nation's 10 ranking elevens to win in a breeze Saturday. Only top-rated Notre Dame meets opposition voting among the first 20 in the weekly Associated Press poll.

But, because a football often bounces in unexpected directions, remember Purdue 6 Michigan State 0, some of the high and mighty of the gridiron ranks could well be toppled from their exalted positions.

And that goes twice for the Irish of Notre Dame, who meet Navy, rated 20th in the poll of the sports writers and sportscasters. Notre Dame, 27-14 conqueror of Georgia Tech last Saturday, received 1,122 points with 82 of the experts calling them the best team in the nation. Navy, victim of a 9-0 setback by Pennsylvania, received not one first-place vote and a total of only 41 points.

Georgia Tech, its unbeaten string snapped at 31 games to Notre Dame, and Michigan State remained in the top 10 but dropped several notches. And two other victims of last week's uprisings, Michigan and Navy, tumbled clear out of the select group. Their places were taken over by Southern California and UCLA.

Notre Dame, in first place ever since the writers and broadcasters picked them as the most likely champion in the preseason poll, completely dominated the poll. Unbeaten Maryland, which took over second place from Michigan State, received 11 first-place votes, and West Virginia was considered No. 1 by 15. No other team had more than two.

DALLAS (U) — University of Texas riders, crippled and still trying to find a consistent combination, was forced to juggle its football lineup again as it prepared to take on surprising Southern Methodist Saturday.

Texas will have its back to the wall — one more loss will knock it out of championship contention. The Longhorns have won one and lost one in conference competition. SMU, rated only 50-50 at the start of the season, has one conference victory against no losses and now ranks 11th in the Associated Press poll. Texas is unranked.

In other game Saturday, Texas A&M, with one conference victory and one loss, also will be fighting to stay in championship contention when it meets Arkansas.

Both Arkansas and A&M were reported in good shape for their tussle at Little Rock Saturday night. A&M has one conference loss and needs this one to stay in the race. Arkansas has lost two. Unbeaten Baylor play Texas Christian, which has lost two loop

Louisiana at War on Slot Machines

BATON ROUGE, La. (U) — State police say they have destroyed more than half the estimated 4,000 slot machines in Louisiana since a drive started Oct. 14.

HERE'S ONE

SHAWNEE, Okla. (U) — Golf-er Paul Mott got a birdie, with one stroke yesterday — a wood-pecker, hit when his slice carried into a tree bordering the course.

Contests; and Rice meets Kentucky

The Mustangs' chances improved with return of halfbacks Frank Eldon and Roy Pace and guard Tommy Hairston, who were withheld from last week's game with Kansas.

Baylor, ranked third in the nation, would not be expected to have much trouble with Texas Christian, unraked and with four losses.

But the Horned Frogs are no pushovers — they almost whipped Michigan State.

Milk Supply Cut Off by Strike

NEW YORK (U) — A strike of 13,000 dairy plant workers and deliverymen cut off the milk supply today to 12,000,000 residents of the New York metropolitan area.

Signs reading "sorry no milk" were appearing in thousands of supermarkets, dairies and neighborhood delicatessens. The supply of fresh milk on retail markets was expected to be completely exhausted by tonight.

Federal mediators worked until early today with representatives of the AFL teamsters union and 200 milk distributors who had failed to reach agreement on a wage increase when the union's strike deadline passed at 5 p. m. yesterday. The strike had been postponed 24 hours from a Saturday deadline.

The 13,000 processors and truck drivers employed in parts of New York, New Jersey and Connecticut were demanding a $15 a week wage increase. Weekly pay now ranges from $82 for plant workers to 115 for truck drivers, who receive commissions in addition to basic wages.
